

BEST STEER AT SHOW SOLD FOR
$1.25 PER POUND*Chicago Packer Bought
"Texas Special" At Morning's Sale

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The grand champion steer of the International Livestock Show—the "Texas Special"—went to the slaughter block today, at a price of $1.25 a pound.

The purchaser was John P. Bowles of the Pfaffel Brothers Packing Company of Chicago. The price represented an advance of five cents a pound over that brought by last year's grand champion at the exposition.

It compares with 8 cents a pound being paid for prime steers on the Chicago livestock market. Bowles' chief competitor in the bidding after the offer marked $1 was Fred Wolf of the City Packing Company of Chicago. He retired when Bowles bid $1.25.

"Texas Special" will be transformed into steaks and roasts to grace Chicago's dinner tables.

Better Than Expected
Cattlemen said today's price was better than they had expected. "Texas Special" was a 1,200 pound Hereford—the first champion ever to be selected at the exposition from the state's leading cattle state. The owners, C. M. Largent & Sons of Merkel, Tex., will receive a check for about $1,500 from the packing company.

The top sum paid for a grand champion steer at the International was $8.25 a pound. That was given for "Lucky Strike," Grade Angus king of 1929 and "Lucky Strike" weighed 950 pounds. Back in 1909 the lowest price in the show's history was paid for King Ellsworth, another Angus—18 cents.

Hotels and restaurants bid against each other for the honor of serving the royal meat at holiday dinners, and this year there was some sentiment attached to the disposal of the winner's carcass.

Some breeders from Texas, where the champion steer was bred, expressed an opinion it would be fitting if the M. K. & T. Railroad should be named for "Texas Special" was the animal for "Texas Special" was named after the railroad's crack train which runs past the Largent ranch.

Corn King Crowned
After the coronation yesterday of the 1932 corn king and prince, the program continued without any outstanding incidents. Breeding classes occupied the center stage, but the judging was not completed.

By showing the championship sample of corn, C. E. Troyer of La Fontaine, Ind., upheld the Hoosier state's supremacy in the corn sweetstakes. He has thrice gained the throne, as has another Indiana grower, Peter J. Lux of Shelbyville.

However, following his win, officials of the grain show announced that beginning with next year's exposition, any grower who has won the championship of his division three times must retire from competition for a period of three years.

The purpose of the ruling, officials said, was to break the monopoly a select group of growers has enjoyed.

The champion carload lot of steers—Aberdeen-Angus, owned by J. P. Mommson of Miles, Ia., went to F. M. Greenwood, for McCann & Company of Pittsburgh, at 15½ cents a pound.

The reserve championship carload lot, also Aberdeen-Angus, brought 10 cents a pound from the Anglo Brothers of Montclair, N. J. They were exhibited by Mommson.

Other Awards Made
As judging opened this morning for Red Polled pure bred cattle, H. P. Olson of Altoona, Ill., won second aged bull, second for two year old bull, second for senior yearling bull and second for senior bull calf.

As pure bred Tamworth swine went into the judging ring, Guy W. Baker of Shelbyville, Ill., took third for senior yearling boar, second for senior boar pig, first for junior boar pig, first for aged sow, first for senior yearling sow, and first and third for junior yearling sow.

In pure bred Cotswold sheep classes, Carl Shaffner & Sons of West Union, Ill., won second prize for aged ram and third for yearling ram.

Cheviot sheep exhibited by Alvin L. Helms of Belleville, Ill., won second for aged ram, second and third for year old rams, second and third for year-old ewe. Second for three ewe lambs, second for get of sire and second for flock of five.

For breeding Red Polled cattle, Joseph Kestel of Manhattan, Ill., won second for junior bull calf, and H. P. Olson of Altoona, Ill., took first on two-year heifers.

Illinois breeders took major honors in breeding classes for Oxford sheep.

Marshall Farm of Libertyville had the champion ram and took second and third on aged rams, first on yearling ram, second on ram lamb, second on three ram lambs, second on ewe lambs, first on three ewe lambs, second on get of sire and first on flocks.

Buesinger Bros. of Taylorville took champion ewe, reserve champion ram, second and third on yearling rams, first and third on ram lambs, first on three ram lambs, first on yearling ewes, third on ewe lambs second on three ewe lambs, first on get of sire and second on flocks.

Estimates place the Indian population of America, at the time of Columbus' voyage at about 850,000.

Passengers On A
Europe-Bound Ship

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Marilyn Miller, stage and screen star and six friends, were accidentally bound for Europe today on the S. S. Bremen owing to their failure to leave the ship before it sailed yesterday morning.

Mrs. Carrie Carter, mother of Miss Miller's first husband, Frank, who was killed in an auto crash, said she received a radiogram from the star telling of her plight.

"On board the Bremen without clothing," was the way the radiogram read, Mrs. Carter said.

In the group with Miss Miller is Don Alvarado, motion picture actor, whose name has been linked with Miss Miller's by Broadway gossip columnists in recent publications.

"She may be engaged to Don," Mrs. Carter said, "but I do not think they are married. It's possible that they have been or are going to be married on board the ship."

The others with Miss Miller and Alvarado were described by the North German Lloyd Line and Mrs. Carter as "Mr. and Mrs. Tierney, Mrs. Murray, Miss Murray, and Miss Herd."

They had gathered at the boat to bid farewell to Mrs. Allen Dwan, wife of the moving picture director. Dwan sailed for Europe two weeks ago and his wife is on her way to join him there.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Chicago and downstate industries have responded to an appeal to rehabilitate their plants to the tune of almost $5,000,000. The Industrial Rehabilitation committee of the Seventh Federal districts announced today.

The committee, organized several weeks ago, has been engaged in interesting plant executives in making needed replacements of machinery and repairs at present advantageous prices.

J. D. Cunningham, district chairman, issued the report and listed the following large outlays by five Chicago firms and a country club. Wilson & Co., $900,000 for boiler plant and engine and room rebuilding. Armour & Co., $2,000,000 for New York and maintenance; Swift & Co., $2,000,000 for same purposes; Sears, Roebuck & Company, $250,000 for boiler plant and engine room; Sunset Ridge Country Club, $18,000 for water system, and Sherwin-Williams Company, $32,000 for new machinery.

From Aurora comes the report of an outlay of $8,260 by the Lyon Metal Products, Inc., for new tools and $3,525.84 by the Aurora Cotton Mills for new machinery.

In Bloomington improvements planned are expected to amount to $2,500, Cunningham said.

Several other large industries are expected to swell the total when surveys of their needs for machinery and other improvements are completed, Cunningham declared.

BRITAIN'S REPLY TO HOOVER NOTE
RECEIVED TODAY*Is Appeal To American People To Consider
British Case

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Porling over a 6,000 word note from Great Britain, President Hoover and his Secretaries of State and Treasury deliberated today as to what should be America's next war debt move.

The document was carried to the White House by Secretary Stimson immediately after it had been delivered to him at his home the first thing this morning by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador.

President Hoover at once called in Secretary Mills, who has worked with him closely throughout the difficulties.

After an hour with the President, both Secretaries left the White House, smilingly declining to comment.

They said the British reply would be made public for tomorrow morning's newspapers.

The text was understood to present reasons why Great Britain feels her request for postponement of her December payments and for a discussion of the whole war debt matter should be granted.

Before the day is over, Washington officials expected also to receive France's reply to the American note which denied an extension of the moratorium to cover December payments, and stating that war debt revision is a matter for Congress to decide. The notes sent last week also set forth, however, President Hoover's intention of recommending that Congress set up an agency to discuss the situation with America's war debtors.

FRENCH NOTE APPROVED

Paris, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The cabinet approved the text of a new note to the United States concerning the war debts this morning. It probably will be sent to Washington sometime today but the government wants to make sure that the British note reaches Secretary Stimson first.

During the discussion of the past several days, in Parliament and elsewhere, it has been indicated that this note will renew the assertion that postponement of the $20,000,000 payment due Dec. 15 is necessary.

If postponement is not granted, however, Premier Herriot, it is said, is ready to pay despite the threat of serious opposition in the Chamber of Deputies.

GREAT BRITAIN PLEADS
London, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Great Britain sought the ear of the average American today in a second urgent request for postponement of the $95,550,000 war debt payment due December 15.

It was a 6,000-word message—that sped across the Atlantic. It asked the citizens of the United States to pass up the December payment and consider revision of the whole structure of war debts.

The document stated the specific reasons why Great Britain believes the request should be granted. The condition of the government's financial structure was outlined, and the British suggestion that the whole world, including the United States, would benefit was set forth.

No tangle of long legal terminology was there to puzzle the reader, and the government in Whitehall agreed the idea was to reach beyond President Hoover, the State Department, and Congress to the great mass of the American people.

Technically, of course, the document was dispatched to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador at Washington, for delivery to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Etiquette Heeded
And for the usual reasons of governmental etiquette, the text of the note was withheld from publication until it could be made public simultaneously in London and Washington. Publication will be made after the note is delivered today or tomorrow, more probably tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the press and public turned to speculation as to what the government would do if the United States refused to heed the renewed request. The second note was sent after the United States had replied to the first, declining to extend the Hoover moratorium and postpone the December payment.

It was generally felt that Great Britain would pay, and probably in gold if a second refusal came from Washington, but there was no official backing for these deductions.

Woman Sought To End Life On Train

Tuscola, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A woman who sought to end her life with poison Sunday on a railroad train, today told physicians at the Jarman hospital that her name was Harriet Clark and said she was from St. Louis. She said she had no relatives.

A nurse's uniform was found in her traveling bag together with a note which she indicated she planned to end her life because of ill health and financial difficulties. She has been in a stupor most of the time since Sunday.

Hospital attendant reported several persons who said they were from Champaign identified her yesterday as Nora Meese of Clinton, Ill. No woman of that name was known to Clinton police, however.

County officials planned today to remove the woman to the state hospital at Kankakee.

His death is mourned by a son Clifford residing on the farm near Lee and another son, whose whereabouts are unknown.

EXPLOSIONS IN MONTREAL'S GAS
AND SEWER MAINS*Six Square Miles Of City Damaged: Dozen Persons Hurt

Montreal, Que., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Staccato blasts from sewer and gas mains ripped through six square miles of northern Montreal during the night, spreading terror among surprised householders. Twelve persons were slightly injured.

Damage from fire or explosion was general, however. One three-story building collapsed and many window panes were blown out. Firemen quenched several blazes, and five fire fighters were slightly hurt rescuing endangered citizens.

Manholes flew high in the air, bluish yellow flame, tearing up miles of street paving.

Remarkable escapes from death were recounted after one upheaval wrecked the three-story building.

Two sharp blasts in succession sent an ice cream store and two flats above literally into the air, and the building crumpled.

The cause of the blasts was not immediately determined, but a statement from the Montreal Heat & Power Consolidated Company advanced the theory that the first explosion was caused by ignition of sewer gas or other inflammable material, and that the blast broke a gas main, starting the series.

LOTTERY CASE

GOVT. ATTORNEY

Eagle Officials Have Inning In Federal Court Today

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The government rested its case against Conrad H. Mann today.

Mann, a Kansas City business leader, is on trial with Frank E. Hering, Fraternal Order of Eagles magazine editor, and Bernard C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh, professional promoters, on charges of sending lottery tickets across state lines.

The government's case was considerably shortened when defense attorneys agreed this morning to accept the governments voluminous technical evidence without objection.

Court recessed until 1 P. M., to accommodate the defense, whose witnesses were not on hand.

The government depended upon only six witnesses, five of them giving brief testimony, to make a case against the four on trial. Eugene R. Balsiger, Auditor for the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was the first witness in the trial and he was still on the stand when court opened today.

Through the other witnesses, M. S. Cogan of the Railway Express Agency at Philadelphia, James W. Reid of the Eureka Specialty Company of Scranton, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. George Finn of Middletown, N. Y., and Robert Kadner of Philadelphia. The prosecutors connected the alleged lottery, the printing, the shipping and receiving of tickets in interstate commerce and, finally, the buying of a ticket by Kadner, who won a prize.

Beautiful Home At Fulton Burns

Fulton, Ill., Dec. 1.—(Special)—The palatial residence of Arthur A. Bentley, located on Eleventh avenue, this city, was destroyed by fire at about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The house was discovered to be enveloped in flames by early risers and an alarm was given to the fire department. It raged promptly but the fire had gained such headway in the large frame structure that it was impossible for the firemen to save any part of it.

All contents were consumed by the flames. They consisted of elegant furnishings, costly oil paintings and bric-a-brac, library, rugs, tapestries and draperies. The amount of the loss is not estimated as Mr. Bentley and all members of the family were out of town in attendance of a convention of the Fidelity Life Association, of which he is the president. It is said the cause of the fire was the explosion of the oil burner heating apparatus in the basement.

The home was one of the most beautiful in the city.

Japanese Move To Wipe Out Rebels

Changchun, Manchuria, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Japanese army set out on the frozen, snow-covered plains of northwest Manchuria today to make good its threat to wipe out the Chinese rebel forces under General Su Ping-Wen, even though the lives of 150 Japanese hostages may be jeopardized.

The objective of the Japanese commanders will be the recapture of almost one-fourth of Manchuria, lying against the Soviet border, and the annihilation of forces allied with General Su, numbering probably 30,000.

The Japanese vanguard of cavalry and infantry rode over the terrain in motor trucks northwest from Tsitsihar, the famous outpost that sheltered the late Chinese General, Ma Chan Shan, so long in 1931.

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Earl Browder, a member of the Secretariat of the American Communist Party, said at national headquarters today that ever since William Z. Foster first suggested a march on Washington the party had been active in organizing and supporting such a movement both among Communists and non-Communists.

Speaking for Foster, the party head, who is all, Browder said the present march was decided on by the National Committee of unemployed Councils on Oct. 10, but that Foster first suggested the action in a speech last Sept. 13.

"The Communist party has definitely supported this move from the beginning," Browder said.

A vast majority of the matchers are not Communists, he added, "but most of them become sympathetic in the course of the march."

Aligned With March

The party spokesman said the recent Communist national political campaign was aligned with plans for the march. As to the question what relation the international headquarters of the party has with the movement, Browder said that while no sanction was asked of the international party, "we sent them our papers, and we receive papers from them."

"The Communist party," Browder declared, "has been the main political leader of the fight for unemployment insurance, and this march fits right in with our whole conception of the struggle for such relief, as well as for the demand for immediate winter relief."

Browder said at least 2,500 persons will reach Washington on the march. These, he claimed, directly represent more than 40,000 persons organized in unemployed councils. The movement, he said, arises out of the minimum of 500-600 workers.

REFUSED PARADE PERMIT

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Speaker Garner received representatives of demonstrators converging on Washington today but refused to grant them a permit to parade on the Capitol grounds next week. Vice President Curtis refused to see them.

Herbert Benjamin of Chicago and William Reynolds of Detroit, representing those sponsoring the march informed the Speaker that despite his refusal they expected to "call" upon Congress.

The two previously had made an effort to see Vice President Curtis but were informed by telephone the Vice President would not receive them.

The Vice President and the Speaker are the only authorities who may grant permits for parades or demonstrations on the Capitol grounds.

Benjamin and Reynolds left with Garner a formal statement outlining three demands. The first was that the congressional program should be organized "in such a manner that the problem of bread shall be placed before the question of beer."

They also asked that the marchers be provided with food, lodging, a place of assembly and that "the necessary provisions be made" to permit them to present on Capitol Hill their "program and demands."

Westinghouse Head Sees Better Times

Boston, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, said today "it is now safe to plan for the future, the worst of the depression is behind us and better times are slowly and steadily coming."

Speaking before the Boston Chamber of Commerce on the industrial rehabilitation movement, Robertson said this conclusion was based on the fact that the "financial panic, which caused the most acute of our troubles in May, June and July of this year, is past."

"Gold is flowing into the country," he said. "Our central banks have hundreds of millions of excess reserves, so that money is cheap although not plentiful so far as business is concerned. The banks are no longer failing in large numbers and some closed banks have reopened. Hoarding is on the decrease."

"In the past such a condition has always been the beginning of a business improvement and we are already beginning to feel a beneficial effect."

The jury listened to evidence all day yesterday and then, after lengthy deliberation, returned its verdict of death at the hands of persons unknown with the recommendation for further investigation.

The detective was killed when he and other policemen sought to restore order after a clash between members of the United Mine Workers and the Progressive miners.

Green Explained His "Force" Threat
Cincinnati, O., Dec. 1—(AP)—Strikes will be only a "last resort" in the American Federation of Labor's efforts to establish unemployment insurance the 30-hour week for the American workingman, leaders of the organization said today.

The insurance plan, which would be paid for by employers and administered by the states, was adopted almost unanimously yesterday in the federation's convention here. The six-hour days five day week was ratified Tuesday under similar circumstances.

President William Green and numerous other federation leaders were among those who advocated peaceful attempt to gain the objectives, but Green himself said "we will use force, if necessary, to obtain our demands" for the short week.

By "force" Green explained he meant "strikes, boycotts and picketing."

WILD PASTURES
MY BLACK flocks wander on the bitter salt marshes:
In the mist they feed and drink;
They pick at the sea-holly and the rough plants and grasses
At the harsh water's brink.

My white flocks stray about the landward meadows;
Their fleeces shine;
With lowered heads they feed on the tender herbs and grasses.
Tasting their honey-wine.

But my horned sheep spring and go upon the mountains.
Lifting their heads to the wind;
Out on the crags they stand; they drink of the running water,
In the way of their kind.

Say Grandmothers Better Shoppers

By RUTH COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, Dec. 1. (AP)—Women of today, credited with doing the major portion of the nation's buying do not know how to get as much for their dollar as did their grandmothers.

That's the appraisal of modern shoppers by Mrs. John D. Sherman of Washington, D. C. Past President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the Federation's American home section.
She participated today in the inauguration of a non-commercial clinic of household science, an educational institution designed to teach intelligent buying. Mrs. Sherman said our grandmothers knew how and what to buy.

"They knew how to judge quality because most of the textiles they used they made," she said. "They had the advantage in that life was simpler, their needs fewer, and they were not confused by the profusion of articles from which the modern housewife has to choose."

"In these days, more than in normal times, merchandise is not always what it appears and all that it is claimed to be."
The clinic has been placed under the directorship of Mrs. Mary Koll Heiner of the home economics department of the University of Chicago, and it resembles an industrial museum.

For example, the history of the manufacture of a pair of silk stockings is traced from the silk worm to chiffon hosiery as it is sold over the counter.

Ill. Association of Deans of Women Meet at Urbana, Dec. 2, 3

The thirteen annual conference of the Illinois Association of Deans of Women will convene at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill., December 2 and 3.

The general themes to be considered this year will be training the individual for group responsibility, and citizenship.

Mrs. H. A. White of Dixon will attend the convention and will have charge of the membership in this district. Mrs. White is also to deliver a paper before the Association on "The Deans' Work in a High School."

The state organization has made marked progress since its inception. The membership shows gratifying increase each succeeding year indicating that the scope of the work has passed the experimental state and is now recognized as having a definite part in the formation of the educational policies and methods of the modern high school and college.

Advisers appreciate the human element in the educational process and attempt to aid girls and young women in a happy adjustment in school and society. The business of the dean is personnel and vocational guidance, and cooperation between this office and the community will result in a better understanding of the girl and her social problems.

The officers of the state organization are:
Miss O. Lillian Barton, President (Illinois State Normal University, at Normal, Ill.)
Miss Mary Mutschler, Vice Pres. (Rockford College, Rockford.)
Miss Grace E. Nix, Secretary. (Northern Illinois State Teachers College, DeKalb.)
Miss S. Cornelia Pierce, Treas. (Mt. Vernon Township High School, Mt. Vernon.)

Practical Club Met With Mrs. Henry Bills Tuesday

The Practical Club met Tuesday Nov. 29, with Mrs. Henry Bills, at her home, 620 Crawford Avenue. The business meeting being disposed of a paper on the "Life of George Washington" was read by Mrs. Leon Hart. There has been a new mansion erected at Wakefield, the birthplace of George Washington, by a society interested in preserving to posterity everything in regard to this great American. Heirlooms, library, his papers of which there were many, for he was a voluminous writer on many subjects, which appealed to him.

The mansion, which was to be finished this year was made as nearly as possible like the home Washington was born in, and together with the home at Mt. Vernon will be a shrine to be visited by all who care to see the birthplace and tomb of George Washington.

At the conclusion of the paper, Mrs. Bills served delicious refreshments, concluding a happy afternoon. The members who had walked to the meeting it being a beautiful day, were glad of a ride on the return trip.

During the business meeting in the afternoon the articles made for the bazaar were displayed and proved to be quite an interesting collection. All these articles together with baked goods will be sold the day before Christmas at office of the Dixon Cleaners.

After the business meeting Mrs. Stanley provided a most interesting program for the entertainment of her guests.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Johnson in Nachusa Dec. 14. As this will be the last meeting before Christmas, a Christmas program and grab bag will be the main feature of the day.

AN EXAMPLE FOR PARENTS.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is going to meet a lot of interesting people, after he gets into the White House; but it hardly seems likely that he will meet anyone more interesting than the family of Gus Sumnick, of Waterloo, Neb., promises to be.

Probably you remember about the Sumnicks. The president-elect had an old-fashioned chicken dinner with them while he was campaigning, and he promised to entertain them at the White House next summer in return. But the interesting thing about them is a remark that the father of the family made after the election.

That, perhaps, is not so very extraordinary. But in an age that spends a lot of its time worrying about the "decay of the home," and fretting over the younger generation's refusal to follow in its parents' footsteps, it is a singularly refreshing little statement.

It represents, of course, nothing more than the ideal which every family ought to come fairly close to realizing. But how many families do? Isn't it, tragically, more often true that youngsters will snatch at almost any kind of marriage in order to escape from a home circle which seems to them to be dull, boring and restrictive?

Nor is that always the fault of the young people. We parents have a way of taking the gratitude and affection of our children for granted, as something that is, in the nature of things, our just due. We seldom stop to think that we have to earn it.

We make little effort to understand our children. We hand down rules of conduct to them, as from on high, and let it go at that. It does not often occur to us that every home really ought to be a place where the children honestly have more fun, more joy in life, than they can find anywhere else.

This Sumnick family, evidently, has discovered a secret that a whole lot of parents would give their eye teeth to get in on.

BALLOTS FOR BULLETS.

The way in which Nicaragua, holding an election under the auspices of the United States marines, has chosen for its president Dr. Juan Sacasa, has been commented upon by American newspapers pretty caustically. Since the marines were originally sent to Nicaragua to keep Dr. Sacasa from being president, this result makes our State Department look middling silly.

There is another angle to it, however, which is also worth noticing. The marines, judging by the election returns, seems to have done their most recent job in a splendidly impartial and fair-minded manner.

Dr. Sacasa, originally kept out of office by the marines, was running against Adolfo Diaz, whom our State Department, five years ago, tried to install as president. And since the election resulted as it did, it is pretty evident that the marines gave the people of Nicaragua every opportunity to express their opinion freely.

GIVING A MAN A CHANCE.

Those of us who have read with an amused interest of the exploits of Sing Sing prison's football team cannot help being gratified by the news that that team has led directly to a smoothing of the path of at least one ex-convict who wants to make good as a decent, law-abiding citizen.

A week or so ago one of Sing Sing's best players finished serving his sentence—three years for burglary—and was released. The present is not a favorable time for a man to come out of prison looking for a job; but this man got one and his chances to make an honest living are excellent. He had played such good football at Sing Sing, you see, that he was given a contract with a professional team as soon as he had been given his freedom.

So now he is a professional athlete, instead of being just an ex-convict looking for a job. It goes without saying that the sports world wishes him all kinds of luck.

The chief danger inhering in university circles is that they will become so intellectualized and standardized that their pliability and usefulness as educational institutions will be minimized, if not destroyed.—Dr. Lotus Delta Coffman, president, University of Minnesota.

Mink coats and period furniture are not always possible, but at least we can have omelets that are soft and melting, and soups that are savory and even beans that are succulent and satisfying.—Sheila Hibben, cook book compiler.

I would compel every solvent merchant and supply man to buy one-third more goods this year than last, if I had the power to do so.—Atlee Pomerene, chairman, Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The old brass band of the small town was a great institution. Most people got their first thirst for music from it.—Edwin Franko Goldman, bandmaster.

I have always wanted to write poetry and I was 45 before I had time for it.—W. J. Funk, member of publishing firm of Funk & Wagnalls.

THE TINYMITIES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

"I wonder where the king can be," said Windy. "Gee, it seems to me that he should stay at home when we've been kind enough to call."

The little hotsytots then cried, "Quite often, lad, he takes a ride. To find him missing from his palace is not new at all."

"You see, he has a carriage and some guards, and my but it looks grand to see them marching down the street. The tots cry, 'Hail the king!'"

"They like him 'cause he's very kind. No better king you'll ever find. If he should pass, behave yourselves, 'cause that's the proper thing."

Just then they heard a bugle sound. The Tynmities all looked around and Scouty shouted, "What was that? Who was it blew that horn?"

"Ah, ha!" replied the hotsytots. "The king approaches, like as not. You'll be surprised to see him. Just as sure as you are born."

Then down a little winding street there came what proved to be a treat. It was the king's carriage, and a lovely sight to see.

"Oh, goody, goody," Coppy cried. "We've caught the king out for a ride. If he'll just say hello to us, how happy I will be."

The carriage then drew very near. The Tynies let out quite a cheer. In front there were two little guards with wee guns held up high.

Their hats were quite a funny sight but, even so, they looked all right. "How proud they act," said Scouty, as they slowly march on by.

And then the carriage reached the boys. Once more they made a lot of noise. A guard upon the king's horse said, "You lads must stay away. You cannot even take a peep because the king is sound asleep. His royal highness is so tired he won't be seen today."

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LIVING WITH PEOPLE OF OTHER RACES

By WILLIAM E. GILROY

Two things are very clearly marked in the world today and in our own America where we have such co-mingling of types and races. One is the unmistakable and tragic fact of prejudice. Almost the entire American history has been characterized by the line between black and white, and the problems involved in connection with it, and there are other racial prejudices not confined to these extremes.

There is prejudice against the Jew; there is prejudice in some quarters against the Italian; there has been prejudice against the Irish; there are those who dislike the English; in fact, there is no race that is not disliked by some other group in the community.

One of the interesting things is to find groups that have suffered themselves from intense racial prejudice manifesting the same intensity of racial prejudice toward other groups. The circles of racial prejudice are involved and interwoven.

The other fact is the clear teaching of humanity in instincts of kindness and consideration, and the plain dictates of a religion of love which it has been manifest in its greatest souls and in life's richest experiences, has broken down prejudices and barriers. Here in our lesson we have two great instances—the one case of a man in whose soul and in whose attitude there were no no prejudices to break down, who in a condition of extreme unfriendliness between his race and that of a neighboring race treated a woman of the despised race with all the courtesy and fineness of a gentleman.

The story of the meeting of Jesus with the woman of Samaria is all the more remarkable when one considers the general prejudices and customs of the time in addition to the bitterness of feeling between Samaritans and Jews. It was against all the custom of the time for a man to be found thus openly and freely conversing with a woman even if the woman had been a woman of good repute and character.

The incident in itself reveals Jesus as displaying "the utmost courage and the utmost freedom from the prejudices of his day." The other instance in our lesson is that of the man whose religion was deeply rooted in prejudice. As a proud Jew, believing that he and his race had a privileged place in the regard of the Almighty, he looked upon others as common and unclean.

Even though Peter had shown himself capable of following Jesus, he had not freed himself from these deep and strong prejudices, and it was necessary that he should have a vision to show him plainly how narrow and wrong he was, and how he should not call anything common or unclean that God had made.

Can there be any solution of our problems of religious and racial prejudice except as men of godliness strive to see and treat all men in the light of God's love? Is not the very essence of godliness to take God's view of men and God's view of life? If we believe the Gospel is there any creature in this world, righteous or sinful, that God does not love? Is not that the very message of the Gospel that God loves us and seeks us regardless of our condition and our situation?

The problems of racial prejudice are not confined to any one group or to any one section of our vast country. The whole matter is one in connection with which there have been deep hypocrisies as well as deep prejudices. Those who have condemned others for their manifestations of racial prejudices have often been as un-Christian in their attitudes and prejudices, both socially and racially. The matter is not one in which the American people can throw stones at one another; it is a matter in which we ought to be seeking the way of intelligence and kindness to build up mutual understandings and co-operations that will make our land a happier land for us all now enjoying its opportunities.

Racial prejudice after all is very foolish, because all races have so much more in common than the differences that divide them.

POET'S CORNER

TO THE WABASH

The gentle hour of twilight gathers slow,
And softer radiance lingers on the sky;
The clouds sail westward in a golden glow,
To robe the couch on which the sun must lie.
And lo! In full and rounded glory comes
The "harvest moon" above the dim old woods,
While nature, tuneless in her vast beauty, hums.
A vesper-hymn from all her solitudes.

The first faint tinge of autumn's bright decay
Robes the far prairie in rich varied hues,
And decks each leaf and bough in such array
As spring along her pathway never strews.
Till plain and wood seem gardens of delight,
Filled with a giant race of gorgeous flowers.
More lovely in their stamp of early blight,
Than in the beauty of their budding hours.

Beside the Wabash thoughtfully I stray,
And as I watch its calm and gentle breast,
The men and deeds who graced its earlier day,
Seem thronging 'mid the shadows of the West.
And mirror-like, within thy face, fair stream,
The wild-wood warriors and his Saxon foe,
In combat, joined—themselves in guerdon—seem
Indeed, realities of long ago.

Historic fame is thine—a name in story;
Half-conscious art thou, in thy calm repose,
Of thine own heritage of deathless glory.
With him who lived 'the terror of his foes,'
Whose daring soul had never met defeat,
Whose deeds have deep on every heart impressed
Where Western hearts in Western bosoms beat,
The name of "Clark"—the famous watch-word of the West.

I wander on still farther up thy shore,
Here, underneath this old and glorious shade,
A mansion stands, built in the days of yore,
A hero's home, whose name can never fade.
While gleams the Wabash in the morning sun,
While prairies bloom, and woods grow old and great,

Here, Harrison, thy name is loved, as one
Foremost in battle—loftiest in the State.

Beneath this very tree, now gnarled and torn,
Wasting its mighty life with many years,
Tecumseh—noblest of the red race born—
Gathered his braves, his prophets and his seers.
Here stood in treaty with his hated foe;
His people thronging from their caves and dens,
Blending their war-shouts, swelling high and low,
With the sweet evening bells of old Vincennes.

methinks I see the savage hero's form,
Majestic in the evening's growing gloom,
Erect, like some brave oak amid the storm,
Defying fate, yet knowing still his doom:
Fearless and proud, his dark eyes roamed along,
Takes in the beauty of the stream and shore,
With prophet ken beholds the coming throng
Seize the loved land his race shall know no more.

Oh, earth has had her heroes in all ages,
Conquest, ambition, power or love, their goal,
But thou, almost unknown on Glory's Pages,
Excelled the most in thy sublimer soul
'Twas a proud thing to still fight on and ever,
Though hope had fled from thee and a thy race,
Hope, country, people lost?—returning never?
Place, heroes, with you? for Tecumseh place.

But night grows dim—cloud-like the mists advance,
—Veiling the moon, the prairie, and the stream,
While the faint stars gaze down with trembling glance,
Voices are stilled and mute, earth seems to dream;
To dream as I do now, of sad soft eyes,
Which waited for him with dearest looks of home,
While the young prattler of their Paradise,
Ask the fair mother, "Will he ever come?"

A BOOK A DAY

IF YOU WANT TO CRITICIZE, READ THIS BOOK FIRST

If you want to say something bad about somebody, just how far can you go without getting jerked into court for libel or slander? If you are reviewing books, how thoroughly can you express your disapproval with some ninth-rate novel that comes to your desk?

If you are a newspaper editor and the wife of a prominent citizen files with the clerk of courts a bill of particulars in a divorce suit, charging her spouse with all kinds of sensational misdemeanors, are you entitled to publish her accusations?

Maybe none of these problems ever weighed very heavily on your mind; but it's fun to find out the answers, anyway, and you'll find all of these topics thoroughly discussed in "Hold Your Tongue," by Morris L. Ernst and Alexander Lindsey.

In this book the authors have dug up every anecdote and incident imaginable in connection with defamation. They have shown how seemingly innocent remarks or publications have been adjudged libelous, and how passages of venomous abuse have been given a clean bill of health; and at the end they conclude that the law of libel must ultimately be relaxed in the interest of the public at large. There will be greater freedom of discussion in the future than there is now. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press must eventually win far more liberal interpretations.

PNEUMONIA SERA

Sera have been developed for the treatment of pneumonia caused by type one and type two pneumonia germs, which cause more than half of all the pneumonias.

The serum developed for pneumonias caused by germs of type one has been demonstrated clinically to be definitely effective.

Thus, patients treated with serum for pneumonias of type one germ show an appreciably lower mortality rate than those who go untreated. Authorities are agreed that every patient with type one pneumonia should have serum treatment.

The serum developed for pneumonia type two is not as yet as potent nor as clinically effective as that developed for type one.

Recent reports, however, show that if the serum for type two pneumonia is administered within 72 hours after the onset of the disease, the patient has a much better chance to recover than if he receives no serum at all, or if the serum is administered later in the disease.

Type two pneumonia, while less common than type one, is very dangerous, the mortality rate being from 30 to 50 per cent, depending upon the age and physical condition of the patients.

The type of pneumonia from which the patient is suffering is determined by taking some of his rusty, blood-tinged sputum and isolating by one of several different means the germs found therein.

The sera employed in the treatment of pneumonias type one and type two are derived from the blood of horses treated with these germs. The serum is abstracted from the blood and is concentrated and purified so that small quantities of it prove effective.

In the laboratory it is now possible to inject mice with a fatal dose of type two pneumonia germs and to save them from death through the simultaneous injection of a sufficient amount of type two serum.

Firemen from Danville and other nearby towns fought the blaze and traffic on the Wabash railroad was blocked for several hours.

CHICAGO—While the Cook county hospital has to turn away thousands of patients because of overcrowded conditions, private hospitals are only half-filled.

Noel Coward Is Glad To Return To Old Broadway

New York, Dec. —(AP)—Noel Coward stepped again into New York, happy, as he said, to be back "among the tall buildings and the champagne air."

This bronzed 36-year-old Englishman, most financially successful of all writers on Broadway and Picaresque stages, returns to realize a dream of eleven years. On Monday morning he will put into rehearsal his new comedy, "Design For Living," which will present Coward himself, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine playing the leading roles.

The tall, thin author of "Private Lives," "This Year of Grace," and a dozen other hit shows, arrived in an $1,800 suit on the new creamy white liner Empress of Britain. The first reporters to greet him were much in a flurry because the passenger list recorded Bernard Shaw as one of those on board ship.

Coward, who knows the ways of newspapermen, had already investigated that possibility for them and reported that Shaw would not join the ship until it had returned to begin a Mediterranean cruise.

After his assistance to the journalists, Coward sat down to breakfast in his paneled drawing room of bird's eye maple and answered questions about himself.

The opening has been set for Cleveland on January 2, and the honored guest at the premiere will be Lord Jeffrey, Earl of Amherst, who will journey from London to Ohio especially for the event. Five years ago the Earl of Amherst was Jeffrey Holmesdale, Broadway reporter for the old morning "World."

CHICAGO—Death removed John Crenar, 75, who founded the coal mining and shipping firm of Crenar & Company in 1889. Born in Nova Scotia he was educated in England and Scotland and came to Chicago in 1879 after serving four years with the First Lanarkshire Rifles. His widow and two daughters survive.

CHICAGO—Three bandits put the finishing touch to James Villaj's story of a holdup. "It was just about this time yesterday," he started saying, "when three bandits—" The conclusion was interrupted by three more robbers who took $140 before leaving. The loot "yesterday" had been $40.

JOLIET—James B. Oseland got property worth $3,000 or $4,000 he once owned here back again when he told a judge he had discovered the woman he married 12 years ago not only had one husband already but two. Property Oseland had decided to her sister, Florida M. Mitchell, Bristol, Tenn., at the time of the ceremony was returned to him by the court. His marriage to Belvie Mitchell was declared illegal also by the judge.

SYCAMORE—Seventy-five thousand cases of corn and succotash were damaged in a $10,000 fire which swept a building of a Borden's milk plant here. The blaze was traced to a grass fire.

JOLIET—One hundred and nine years is a long time to serve in prison so Art Newman appealed to the state Pardon Board for clemency. It was his testimony that helped break up gangs in the southern section of the state but even so, minimum terms on the many charges he was sentenced for would draw his time in prison out to 109 years.

Whatever the real situation or whatever the possibilities may be, there is no question about the state of mind and pocket-book of those thrown out of work by the Economy drive.

The methods used by the various political parties in appealing for the support of the public were most interesting. Besides the use of airplanes by candidates and their workers, enabling personal touch with a great deal more of the electorate, the use of radio broadcasting was a great factor. Obviously, the great advantages of broadcasting for propaganda purposes are those of the accessibility of the public and freedom from interruption, although in all matters it is found that the public reads its newspapers no less diligently, for, after all, it is the printed words that form the final and comparatively incontrovertible record.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

FATE OF LITTLE NINETEEN LOOP TO BE DECIDED

Several Plans For Re-organization Have Been Suggested

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)— Fate of the Little Nineteen Conference was in the hands of representatives of the athletic interests of twenty-one member colleges today as the two-day fall meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association got under way.

The President's committee of five was scheduled to go into executive session today in an effort to iron out certain proposals for presentation to the general session Friday.

Meanwhile Athletic Directors and coaches of the school gathered in their hotel to discuss various proposals to reorganize the state-wide conference.

President Charles P. Lantz of Charleston, Ill., who with William McAndrews of Carbondale, V. F. Swaim of Peoria, L. M. Cole of Decatur and Lewis Omer of Carthage, were to draft a tentative plan today, declared he felt the conference would come out of this meeting much stronger than it ever has been before.

Proposals to oust state-supported normal schools from the present organization, or dissolve the conference, out of which would arise a group of larger institutions, or reorganize the conference into four groups were to be presented Friday.

Other business, including scheduling of 1933 gridiron games, fixing of dates and locations for indoor and outdoor track events next spring and election of officers were on the program.

To Submit By-Laws
The Lantz committee expects to submit proposed by-law amendments which it is hoped will answer most of the criticisms liberal arts colleges have leveled at the five state normal institutions. Under the amendments the normal colleges and liberal arts schools would operate on the same basis as far as semesters and quarters are involved in eligibility of players.

Athletes would be permitted to count only one credit in physical education or coaching toward eligibility.

Fred H. Young of Bloomington, athletic official, submitted a proposed division of the conference schools into four groups based on geographical location. He recommended a rotating schedule with the suggestion that the first conference game scheduled for any college become the second game the following year, and so on. Each group would be limited to six schools and the winners of each division would meet to determine the championship.

Under this plan the following divisions would be made:
Northern — Wheaton, DeKalb Normal, North Central, St. Viator, Lake Forest and Elmhurst.
Central — Illinois Wesleyan, State Normal, Bradley, Eureka and Millikin.
Western — Knox, Monmouth, Augustana, Carthage, Macomb Normal.
Southern — Carbondale Normal, Illinois College, Shurtleff, Charleston Normal, McKendree.

Young declared normal schools would be willing to forego their alleged advantage of quarterly enrollment if this plan is accepted.

A DANGEROUS GAME
Evansville, Ind. — From now on Paul Griffin, 11, and Douglas Dale, 11, will confine their names to the back yard. While playing railroad the boys threw a switch causing a passenger train to crash into a box car on a siding. Paul Griffin, whose father is a brakeman, said that he had found the key to the switch at home. The boys were put on probation by Judge Williams, because, he said, they were too young to realize the seriousness of the act.

"Well I Swan" Cried the Skater

When the lagoon in Cleveland's Wade Park froze over this fall, "Admiral," favorite swan of the Cleveland park-going public, refused to leave for winter quarters. He slid and flapped about in the middle of a very rubbery stretch of ice, Persuasion, intimidation, abuse, all were in vain. Finally Art Mutchings, former hockey star, put on skates and captured the indignant and hissing "Admiral." In the background is Cleveland's Art Museum.

"Boys Who Carry Mail" Honored By Their Team Mates

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The boys "who carried the mail" were recognized as the most valuable players in the Big Ten football camps with but three exceptions this year. Each team named its most valuable player at the end of the campaign with the result that seven backfield stars were selected. The remaining trio was made up of a tackle, center and guard.

The selections for each team: Illinois, Gil Berry, halfback. Michigan, Harry Newman, quarterback. Wisconsin, Mickey McGuire, halfback. Purdue, Roy Hortsman, fullback. Northwestern, Pug Rentner, halfback. Chicago, William Cassels, tackle. Minnesota, Roy Oen, center. Iowa, Joe Laws, fullback. Indiana, John Keechik, guard. Ohio State, Lew Hinchman, halfback.

Berry, Newman, Hortsman and Hinchman won berths on the all-conference team picked for the Associated Press by coaches.

FEVER TOUCHDOWNS
New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—All the ball totting, passing and kicking the star of the nation could do with the aid of the hard-working but often unheeded linemen, brought fever touchdawns this year than in any of the previous ten seasons.

The records of 159 representative teams showed the lowest total of the eleven years such records have been gathered by The Associated Press, 123.3 points per game. Last year the average was 14 points a game and in 1930 it was two points higher. The high mark for the eleven years was made in 1922 when the records of 63 teams showed an average of 19 points a game.

Texas Christian, champions of the Southwest Conference, led the major colleges, totaling 283 points in eleven games for an average of 25.7 while holding its opponents to 23 points in all. Colgate's sturdy team easily copied defensive honors, not allowing the enemy a point in nine contests while scoring 264. Numerous explanations were found to explain the drop in scoring. Among them hard competition and the absence of soft games on the schedules of major teams but many of the leading coaches, among them Colgate's guide, Andy Kerr, were inclined to cast much of the blame upon the new rules, which, they say, penalize the ball carriers more than the defenses. The new regulations barring the flying block and the flying wedge and the one which makes a ball dead when the carrier touches the ground with any part of his body except his feet, coming on top of other restrictions on the offense proved a bit too much for the scorers although they had the desired effect in reducing injuries.

COP LOSES HARD FIGHT
Los Angeles.—Patrolman H. B. Reeve was sent out to capture a coyote that was roaming about loose. Arriving on the scene, Reeve jumped out of the car and grabbed the beast by the tail. "I've got it," he cried. But the coyote thought differently. He showed a full set of sharp teeth to Reeve and commenced chasing him around in circles. Finally the officer got so dizzy he had to let go. Taking a firm hold he tossed the animal as far as he could. The beast got away.

RUMORED NAVY HAS CHANCE TO DEFEAT CADETS

Army Is Still Suffering From Effects Of Its Game With Irish

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The word is being whispered around, a little fearfully by the "experts" who have been fooled so often by football, that the Navy is in a "sweet" spot to beat the Army and redeem all the failures of a very ordinary season.

There is little in the records to prove that either team is capable of defeating the other, especially in the kind of game the service schools always play, but there is a strong possibility that the Midshipmen may reach the peak of their form Saturday while the Cadets still are trying to recover from last week's defeat by Notre Dame.

While Army was taking a licking and the battering that went with it, Navy had an open spot in its schedule last week, giving two full weeks of preparation for the big game. That rest and the absence of serious injuries may tell the tale although there is a strong argument, drawn from the results of the season, that Army may come back stronger than ever.

The Cadets did that once this season, returning to shellac Yale and Harvard thoroughly after losing to Pittsburgh, and nearly every other major team that has been knocked off the top of the heap in the past two months has returned in the same way to climb back toward the high spots.

Gridiron Schedule For 1933 Adopted

By DON HILLIKER

An eight-game schedule will be played by the 1933 Dixon high school football team, the outline for next fall's contest being staged as follows:

Fare Swimmers

Long distance swimmers are these fair mermaids, who if they desired, might start splashing in New York and continue right on to Miami. It sounds pretty complicated but the five swimmers are enjoying the miniature tank on the recreation car which has become part of the equipment of the New York-to-Miami railroad service. Of course the tank is too small for a swim, but the splashing possibilities are great. Trying out the tank, left to right, are Lisa Lindstrom, Dorothea Dickinson, Jessie Conway, Susan Robertson and Joan McSheehy.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

LOOKING BACK—Some of the men mentioned here may become All-America candidates. That is not my concern.

But what I do want to impress is the idea that the young men I am talking about furnished some great moments. Like actors in a play, their drama will be remembered.

I think the greatest play of the football season was furnished by Paul Moss, the Purdue end. In the game with Northwestern he was covered constantly by two Purdue players. A long pass was flung down the field.

He came up in the middle of the little crowd, leaping high in the air to grab the ball while four alien hands clutched at the oval.

FIRST BLOOD—

Then there was Sebastian and that great run around left end to score for Pitt the first touchdown of the season against a Notre Dame team that had been believed impregnable. Little Mike carried the leather in a twisting, twirling dash that will linger in memory.

"Watch Sim against Pitt," was the warning from Pacific operatives. But it turned out that Corbus, a great guard, stole the show for dear old Stanford.

Pug Rentner may be left off the All-America this year, unfortunately. Against Purdue in 10 minutes he was splendid. Flung flat passes, straight and hard, low Grove pitching, and three long, arching, lazy passes unerringly. Rentner tied Purdue after all hope seemed lost.

WAS HE SCARED—

There was Don Kellett of Penn, whose great playing against Pitt frightened Coach Jock Sutherland on the bench out of two years' growth.

Jack Robinson, the center of Notre Dame. How he fought against Pittsburgh while his mates were laughing off a game that turned out to be a tragedy to the South Bend hosts.

There was Heller of Pittsburgh. He was perfection itself, not in one game alone, but in every contest in which he appeared. The memory of Heller will remain that of a man blocking and tackling. Now a block, now a tackle.

That twisting, twirling dash of Heller's through a wall of Stanford bodies, remains one of the year's bright accomplishments.

The memory of Skladany, the Pitt end who broke through the Notre Dame line time after time to mess up threatened Notre Dame passes, remains fresh.

THE LAST STRAW—

Then there was that run of Dailey's. Intercepting a forward pass flung desperately in the last few minutes of the Pitt-Notre Dame game, he ran for the touchdown that took away the last vestige of Irish hopes.

Melinkovich, running 98 yards through a field of Northwestern players to score a touchdown in the first few minutes of play against Northwestern is another.

Lew Hinchman, fighter extraordinaire, leading the charge for Ohio State against Penn, is another.

Newman, passing Michigan to victory over an Ohio State team that seemed better, is another.

And another is Horstmann of Purdue, cracking the Northwestern line and Purvis and Carer and Pele and all of that gallant Purdue team and many others.

'Sparky' Adams Gets His Reinstatement

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Players with back salary claims today balanced 428 in Kenesaw M. Landis' high baseball court. Three claims were allowed, four were disallowed.

The claims and decisions in each by the High Commissioner of Baseball:

Frank Parenti vs Newark club, allowed.

James Moore vs Portland club, allowed.

J. L. Boswell vs J. C. Cambria, Youngstown, O., allowed.

M. J. Shoffner vs Nashville club, disallowed.

Clarence P. Roper vs Dubuque club, disallowed.

Arthur Mueller vs Burlington club, disallowed.

H. L. Weaver vs Wilmington, N. C. club, disallowed.

Commissioner Landis also granted the reinstatement application of Earl 'Sparky' Adams, star St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, who was out of the game almost all of last season.

Japanese Yen At An All-Time Low

Tokyo, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The biggest headlines in the vernacular press this afternoon reported the Japanese yen had dropped to a low mark for all time—19 1/2 cents.

The latest report from the United States Treasury on the yen, that of Nov. 25, showed its exchange value in New York on that date to be $0.207250. The nominal value of the yen is 49 1/2 cents.

The financial writers attributed the decline partially to speculation, the anxious international Japanese situation and the prospective Japanese governmental budget deficit.

The situation at Geneva was especially noted in respect to the international outlook.

Marines Are Now Leaving Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The final exodus of United States Marines under the United States withdrawal policy was under way today, and the entire force of 700 is expected to be evacuated by Jan. 3.

The first unit of departing American troops numbered about 300 men. They left Managua yesterday for Corinto and embarkation for home today.

United States Marines were first landed in Nicaragua in 1912, and remained 13 years. They were withdrawn in 1925, but sent back in 1927 to help maintain order. At that time the insurgent, Augustino Sandino, was engaged in activities in the north, and has engaged in military conflict with the Marine trained National Guard since then.

The country meanwhile is quiet. The last contact between National Guard and Sandino groups occurred Sunday in the form of a 15-minute skirmish near Jinotega. Two Sandinistas were slain and three captured. There were no guard casualties.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remedy a substitute. See at all stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

St. Louis, Mo. — "Never mind the food. It's money I want," said the man who had begged his way into the home of Mrs. Jessie Hemp, where Corwin Ecks is caretaker. "All right. I'll give you more than you expect," said Ecks, as he flung open the pantry door. "See him," said Ecks, and Mrs. Hemp's police dog leaped from the pantry and attacked the man. Fearing the man might be killed, Ecks called the dog off while the culprit fled with a torn and bleeding wrist.

ILLINOIS DEPT. OF LEGION WINS SERVICE TROPHY

It Is Awarded Organization For Second Consecutive Year

Bloomington, Ill. Dec. 1—(AP)—For the second successive year, the National Service trophy of the American Legion has been awarded the Department of Illinois.

Awarded annually to the department doing the best type of service work among veterans and their dependents, the trophy was returned to Illinois, on the report of the new department commander, James P. Ringley, and the Department Service officer, L. R. Benston, which reviewed in detail the service rendered in Illinois.

It is on display at the Chicago headquarters of the Legion at 209 North LaSalle street, and will be displayed at state headquarters in Bloomington, on and after December 10.

Accomplishments of the service department were described by Mr. Benston as follows:

"The American Legion in Illinois has maintained since the end of the World War, a Service Department for the convenience of all veterans of the World War and their dependents; The Service Department also assists veterans of other wars, as well as peace-time veterans.

"The Service department, located at 209 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, handles all phases of claims arising from the death of veterans, which include pensions for surviving dependents; free employment service for veterans; relief for families; and direct relief for stranded veterans. The Legion also maintains a Claims Office at the offices of the Veterans' Administration at Hines, Illinois, for the purpose of assisting claimants who have claims for compensation filed with the Veterans' Administration, and for the purpose of assisting in the matter of hospitalization. A branch office is also maintained at State Headquarters, Bloomington, Illinois.

"The Department of Illinois, the American Legion, purchased the first radium for use in the treatment of cancer in Veterans' Bureau hospitals, and this radium is still being used by the government hospital at Hines, Illinois.

"The services in the form of compensation, pensions and death benefits to families of deceased veterans for the year of 1932 totaled $460,752.59. This represents 1147 claims successfully adjudicated with the assistance of the Legion.

"In the form of direct benefits and aid, the Legion made an appropriation of $53,629 for the service work in 1932.

"There was expended from Legion funds for the direct relief of veterans and their families $10,387.90; there was expended by The American Legion Auxiliary for the same purpose $7,358.49; there was expended for family relief by the individual Posts in Cook county alone $50,840.50; there was also expended by the American Legion Auxiliary Units in Cook County alone $28,237.10. It must be borne in mind that the relief as expended by the American Legion in the form of family relief by the posts and units of the Legion is carried on voluntarily and without any overhead.

"The final analysis of the receipts and expenditures of The American Legion shows that the American Legion and the Auxiliary combined expended in 1932 the sum of $96,824.03 in service work and realized from the sale of poppies the year before a total of $29,348.63. The deficit is made up by the posts from post funds, annual dues, or from benefits affairs conducted by the posts."

Eviction of British Tenants Brings Skirmish

It was all even in this skirmish between British police and unemployed members of the Dagenham Tenants League, for the Bobby on the right is standing over a fallen comrade while those on the left are aiding a fallen rioter. Difficulties arose over eviction orders, and the woman seen in the background has been chased from her home at Bacontree Essex.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Tom Walsh of Montana, that dreaded senatorial inquisitor, is at it again—this time in hearings on the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

Almost daily six senators, Borah of Idaho, Vandenberg of Michigan, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Glenn of Illinois, Wagner of New York and Walsh, sit to hear arguments pro and con on the vast project negotiated by Canada and the United States.

But it is the grim, gray-haired, 73-year-old Walsh, veteran of countless such investigations, who is taking the lead in handling the various witnesses. And after Tom Walsh has finished with a witness that person knows it.

They all look alike to Walsh. The bigger they come the more severely he handles them, it seems at times. He wades into them, never letting up for an instant in search of the information he wants.

HE'S PATIENT—He is a deadly serious and never employs humor to enliven a hearing, regardless of how technical or dreary it is. Rarely does he smile.

Skillful in leading a witness on with apparently irrelevant questions, without warning he can force him into an admission far from what the witness intended. It is largely this which has made him such an object of fear in a senatorial investigation.

NEW OFFICERS INJURED—Macomb, Ill. Nov. 30—(AP)—State Senator-elect James C. May or of LaHarpe and Rep-elect Rodman E. Grigsby of Blandinsville escaped serious injury when their car overturned after colliding with another at Blandinsville last night.

Farmer Is Using His Corn As Fuel

Springfield, Ill. Nov. 30—(AP)—Use of corn for fuel by a farmer in the northwestern part of Illinois, has been reported to the Weather Bureau here, and is noted in today's synopsis of weather and crop conditions.

"The snow cover," the report said, "is now mostly gone. Corn husking was resumed, however it progressed rather slowly in most areas because of heavy fields under thawing weather. The gathering of the corn crop is generally well advanced. Aside from corn husking, little field work was accomplished, except that some cotton was picked in the extreme south. Conditions of winter wheat is mostly good, and alfalfa fields of the southern and central portions of the state generally are reported as looking well. Some of the soy bean crop is still to be harvested. Country roads in the southern part of the state are reported in poor condition."
